LAST EDITION.
WAS YOUNG FALES INSANE?

Probable Defense of Newark's Cool Boy Murderer.

Dental that Any Other Persons Are Implicated in His Confession.

NEWARK, May 5.—The latest issue of the cause of death of old Thomas Hayden, the owner of the Potter straw hat factory, has been postponed till to-morrow afternoon at the court-house. Corner Emanuel Schwartz's investigation will be a formal one, however, now that Robert Alden Fales, the fifty-year-old, self-confessed criminal has admitted that it was he who struck the fatal blow and then chloroformed and robbed his victim.

There is considerable speculation here today as to whether young Fales will ever be hanged for the crime. His mother has not yet engaged any counsel for him. It is believed, however, that when the youth's trial comes up, the defense will be emotional instead.

While young Fales's appearance does not indicate any great degree of intelligence, he is far from being an imbecile. His face is hatchet-shaped, and there is a receding of the chin that denotes a weakness to withstand temptation.

There is no bravo about him, and the cool, quiet way in which he tells of his carefully planned scheme to rob the old cashier of the people and astounds the police beyond measure.

The boy is today beginning to appreciate the full meaning of the terrible charge against him, and he is unceasing in his assertions that he did not mean to kill Hayden, but only to disfigure him so that he would get the money that he knew was in the cashier's possession.

Supporters of the insanity theory base their argument on heredity, citing the fact that only three months ago the young murderer's father, who was a machinist in the Clark Thread Works, committed suicide in Joseph Holmes's saloon, on Belleville avenue, by taking a dose of poison in a glass of beer.

There are many who think that the elder Fales was insane, and that his son may have a hereditary taint of insanity in his make-up.
This theory, however, is scouted by the police, who believe that young Fales is perfectly sane, and that the confession was premeditated and has been an unusual criminal showpiece in the boy.

Fales's mother is an estimable woman, but she has been unfortunate in having two brothers, Alonzo and Spencer Egbert, who are now serving life sentences in Trenton State Prison. Her husband's suicide added to her troubles, and her boy's murderous exploit is the latest drop in her cup of bitterness. Said Chief of Police Hopper this morning:

"When her brothers were convicted Mrs.
Fales expressed her satisfaction at the result, because it would remove them from personal contact with her, over whom she feared they had evil influence.

"We learned then that this boy was rapidly becoming an adept in crime. While it was not known that he had actually participated in burglaries with his uncles, we were nearly certain that he aided them in disposing of their plunder and used frequently to make trips to New York for that purpose.

"It is not true that Fales has implicated others in this crime. He was alone and unaided. The case is perfectly clear against him, and there is little doubt in my mind that he will hang for the murder."

The last time a boy under twenty was hanged in New Jersey was in 1927, in Min-niedon county. The youth was James Gould, a colored boy of twelve years and four months, who killed Catherine Blakes, an aged woman, at Hopewell.

Like Fales, Gould confessed the crime, but declared that he did not mean to kill the woman.

All murder which shall be perpetrated by any person, or by being in wait, or by any other means, shall be deemed murder in the first degree.

In his confession to Superintendent of Police Brown, Fales admitted not only that he had been planning to waylay and rob Hayden for weeks, but also that he had postponed the deed until the Saturday because he knew that on that day he would have more money than on the Saturday previous.

Chief Hopper had another talk with Fales this morning, but denied that he had elicited any new information.

Det. "Joker" Long, George Hall, his brother and George Hall, who were arrested on charges of being connected with Hayden's murder, have been disbarred.

NO ALL-NIGHT LICENSES YET.

The Excise Board Will Not Fix the Pen Until Next Week.

The office of the Board of Excise Commissioners, at Bond street and the Bowery, presented a busy scene this morning. Many licensees were there, all anxious to know what the commissioners are going to do about granting licenses for all-night dances.

They got no satisfaction, however, for although the commissioners were in attendance, no all-night licenses were granted. Some of the licensees were granted, but they were not to be granted until next week, when the board will fix the license fee. A number of applicants for such licenses have already been admitted.

Alleged to Visit Colorado.

About fifteen members of the Board of Alleged to Visit Colorado. Among those who were expected to attend the conven-McCook, Attorney General, and others who were expected to attend the convention at Colorado Springs.

ST. MICHAEL'S WAS ON FIRE.

Father Gleason's 1,400 School Child n Marched Out Safely.

Flames Started in a Storeroom and Spread to the Church Roof.

Fire was discovered in the four-story building adjoining St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church this morning for a time it seemed as though the fire would spread to the church, the great school attached, were doomed.

St. Michael's church and the school cover fourteen city lots, and there are entrances to the church on Ninth avenue, on Thirty-second and on Thirty-first street.

Adjoining the parochial school, and here there were 1,400 children learning their lessons under the guidance of thirty-five teachers.

Janitor Thos. Wilkinson, who lives on the second floor of the building at 414 West Thirty-second street, which is used as a storeroom for the school and the church, discovered fire on the third floor and sent out an alarm.

The danger to the school was appalling, and four alarms were hurriedly sent in.

Rev. Father John A. Gleason, the pastor of St. Michael's Church, entered the school and rang an alarm bell placed there for the purpose.

What followed was a beautiful example of the value of training for just such emergencies.

The children of the school have been drilled daily, and at a signal from Mother Xavier the class of smallest children arose in their places and marched out in perfect order.

They were followed by the class of children next larger, and so on until every one of the 1,400 little ones had passed safely to the street.

There was not the slightest panic nor even a sign of fear among the children.

Eight engines were throwing streams of water on the burning building within fifteen minutes from the time of sounding the third alarm.

The fire was first communicated to the organ loft through the gable of the church, and spread rapidly upward to the apex and along towards the main altar, on either side of which were costly marble statues and large paintings of scenes of the transfiguration.

These, with other costly paraphernalia and paintings along the gallery, were removed at Father Gleason's command, to a space inside the altar rail. They were covered with canvas, as was also the marble altar, and then the church was vacated and water turned upon the interior.

When the fire had been extinguished an inventory of the furnishings showed a damage of about $10,000, which, with the damage to the church, will make an aggregate loss of about $21,000. The church and school property were insured for $100,000.

The large pipe organ, which originally cost $4,500, was almost totally destroyed by fire and water, and several valuable paintings were damaged by smoke and water to the extent of several thousands of dollars.

The damage to the altar and trimmings was comparatively slight, and Father Gleason declared that mass would be celebrated in the church as usual on Sunday.

Janitor Wilkinson was unable to account for the origin of the fire. He says he caught a glimpse of flames on the third floor, perhaps from spontaneous combustion, and had nearly burned through to the roof before he discovered it.

St. Michael's Church was built thirty-four years ago, and the late Vicar-General, the Right Rev. Mgr. Donnelly, was its pastor for many years and was the father of the church in 1908. Rev. Daniel J.
Curry was acting pastor until Oct. 5, 1920, when Rev. John A. Gleason became vicar.

The church and school occupy fourteen city lots, extending from Thirty-first to Thirty-second street, and filling a whole block on Ninth avenue.

DEFEATED CAPT. M'COLLAGH.

Grocer Persch Will Not Be Disposed for a Saloon-Keper.

A suit to dispossess Grocer Hugh Persch from his store on the third floor of the building, tried today, reveals that the owner of the property is Isabella, the wife of Police capt. John McCullagh, the elder; and that he sought to oust Persch to make room for the wife of Capt. Ladd, who was willing to pay more for the store in which he desired to open a saloon.

Mr. Persch succeeded in convincing the jury in Justice McKenna's Seventh District Court that he had been in possession of the store for years, and that he had been in possession of the store for years, and that he had been
